	This action request has to do with the minimal technology for a classroom on the Kapiolani Community College campus so students as well as faculty are able to Engage, Learn and Achieve. Faculty prepare weeks before the start of classes. However, all their preparation is met with failing equipment. Between the first week of school up to and including today, the LLL Department has had to purchase a projector for the following classrooms (Ilima 202C, Mokihana 105, Olapa 211, Olapa 204). Im sure that by the end of this semester the LLL department will have to purchase at least two more. My questions is who is responsible for making sure that all our classrooms have appropriate technology. All the faculty are asking is that there is at least a workable projector, sound, a desktop and internet. Many of our classrooms do not even have the minimum. Don't we have a technology plan? Who is suppose to be carrying out the technology plan? The LLL department has a budget of $19,000 for Operations and Equipment for 36 Full-time faculty and 44 adjunct. This $19,000 dollars needs to cover office supplies, computer hardware and software, paper, xeroxing, instructional materials and other miscellaneous items. I don't think that it should be used for purchasing the basic of a classroom. I can see if the classroom was specifically for the LLL Department but, it is not. Question is basically, who is responsible for the upkeep of technology in the College's classrooms?
Proposed Recommendation:	If CELTT is responsible for the classrooms and has a budget to cover the minimum needs of each classroom, then I think the LLL Department should be refunded for the projector's and other computer equipment that we have purchased for the classroom. If CELTT does not have a budget to cover the minimal classroom items, than should the Departments cover the cost?
